

There are different tuition rates for Utah residents and nonresidents, based on the Utah State Law, 53B-8-102 and the Board of Regents R512, Policies and Procedures. Your initial residency classification is made when you are admitted and will be included in your official letter of acceptance. If you are classified as a nonresident and feel you should qualify for resident status, you may submit an Application for Residency Reclassification with the appropriate supporting documents.

* Western Undergraduate Waiver (WUE) recipients will not be eligible to apply for residency reclassification for tuition purposes. (Exceptions are: marriage to a Utah resident, joining the Utah National Guard, or parents are Utah residents).

* Students in the U.S. on any type of visa are not eligible for reclassification as Utah residents for tuition purposes.

Adverse rulings may be appealed by submitting a written request to the Residency Appeals Committee. The Committee shall make an independent examination of the issues presented and shall make a final determination of the resident status. Appeals may be given to the Admissions Office for submission to the Committee.

Verification for the 12 Month General Rule

Applicants for reclassification under the 12-month general rule have the responsibility to prove that you have physically resided in Utah for 12 continuous months without absences totaling more than 29 days. Some suggestions for verification may include, but are not limited to, any or all of the following:

- School attendance in face-to-face classes. Transcripts will be used for this method.
- Employment history (pay stubs or letter from employer – must clearly state the number of days worked each week and that the employment has been consistent without breaks in attendance). Pay stubs will be reviewed for hours worked each pay period. Part time employment may require additional verification depending on the hours worked or statement from the employer.
- Bank statements with the student's name showing daily activity in Utah.
- Cell phone records showing origination of calls in Utah.
- Gym membership and official work out log.
- Volunteer service records with activity dates.
- Letter from professors, coaches, community, business, or religious leader (must state clearly that there has been consistent and daily interaction during the time in question)
- Other verification that verifies physical presence

NOTE: Rental agreements, rent receipts, or utility bills do not show physical presence. They may be submitted, but additional documents will be required. In addition, receipts for purchases in the state will not be accepted as prove of physical presence. These items are suggestions only. If students are unable to provide any of the items above, it is his/her responsibility to provide acceptable method that will prove physical presence. Statements from family, friends, neighbors, etc will be accepted, but additional items will be required.
