Southwest Utah AHEC serves Beaver, Garfield, Iron, Kane and Washington Counties with the mission to improve access to health care through education. This is accomplished through three different objectives. First, introducing young people from rural and underserved communities to health care careers. By encouraging middle and high school students to consider a health career, their awareness of future occupational options is expanded. Through activities such as health profession summer camps, classroom presentations and health career fairs, students gain insight about classes and activities that would help them prepare for college and a degree in a health profession.

Second, AHEC provides training in rural and underserved communities to students who are pursuing health profession degrees. Each month, SU AHEC has many medical students and other health profession students completing clinical training in Southwest Utah. This opportunity increases the likelihood that a student will return to practice in our community upon graduation and certification. SU AHEC also helps SUU students who are pursuing health care careers by providing, job shadowing opportunities, volunteer experience, research opportunities and MCAT and DAT prep classes.

Third, SU AHEC supports existing health professionals via continuing medical education. Once a commitment is made by a health care professional to practice in a rural community, it is important to provide on-going education. By coordinated targeted continuing medical education programs according to needs identified by health care professionals and facilities, SU AHEC supports them and the communities they serve.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES AND RIGHTS

I. Student Conduct

Students of Southern Utah University share with many others a vital interest in the essential mission of their college. True to its founders and motto, "Learning Lives Forever," Southern Utah University is a center of learning where students prepare in knowledge and self-discipline for the responsibility to make, as free men and women, a worthy contribution to the social, cultural, and economic progress their forefathers thus far advanced. This purpose forges a compelling bond of common interest among all administrators, faculty members, students, alumni, and fellow citizens of the region and state—who share the responsibility for cooperative action and support to fulfill it.

On the commitment to this aim by everyone that shares it, rests the future of Southern Utah and the opportunity this institution provides. For this reason, each student is expected to uphold and improve the partnership in his/her University for the sake of those to come, by the conduct that respects the rights and interest of others in common endeavor. This code is designed to provide basic standards for student conduct to ensure the fulfillment of the obligation stated above.

As citizens of the larger community in which the University is located, students have all the responsibilities which devolve upon any citizen. While the University is deeply concerned with what happens to students both on and off the campus and is willing to assist students in need of help, the University holds students to be adults responsible for their own actions and subject to local, state, and national laws.

Students who violate expected standards of conduct will be subject to disciplinary action. Incidents occurring on the campus, or of primary concern to the University, will usually be handled by appropriate University agencies. Incidents occurring away from the campus will usually be under the jurisdiction of local authorities. Students should be aware, however, that the campus is not a sanctuary and that local law enforcement officials have authority to intervene when circumstances warrant. Moreover, University officials can call on outside peace officers for assistance when, in their judgment, such assistance is needed.

II. Sexual Harassment

It is a violation of policy for any member of the University community to engage in sexual harassment. It is a violation of policy for any member of the University community to take action against an individual for reporting sexual harassment.

According to guidelines issued by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and followed by the Office of Civil Rights of the United States Department of Education, sexual harassment in the academic community may involve unwelcome sexual advances, request for sexual favors, and other intimidating verbal or written communications or physical conduct of a sexual or sexually offensive nature. Sexual harassment takes various forms; inappropriate sexually related remarks or behavior; inappropriate and offensive sexual advances without explicit threats or promises of rewards; solicitation of sexual activities or other sex-linked behavior by promise of reward; coercion of sexual activity by threat of punishment; and sexual assault.

Students who believe they have been a victim of sexual harassment may obtain a copy of the Sexual Harassment Policy Statement and Procedures from the Vice President for Student Services, Sharwan Smith Center 206, (435) 586-7710.

III. On-Campus Behavior

All members of the University are charged with the responsibility of maintaining order and discipline within their sphere of influence, i.e., instructors in classrooms, student officers in student organizations, head residents within residence halls, etc.

Illustrations of improper behavior on the campus which can result in disciplinary action include, but are not limited to, the following:

1. Stealing or other misappropriation of money or property, including books belonging to the University or others on campus.

2. Cheating, forgery, plagiarism, or other use of work belonging to another; falsification of records, including knowingly furnishing false or misleading information to University officials or on University records or altering or tampering with such records (including official identification cards).

3. Passing a worthless check or money order for goods or services or in payment of any financial obligation to the University.

4. Violation of standards designed to protect the safety and welfare of others. Because of the danger involved, students are not allowed to keep firearms on the campus except at approved times and/or in designated storage areas, and it is against University regulations to discharge a firearm loaded with live ammunition on the campus.

5. Assault. Except in self-defense, students shall not strike nor attempt to strike any person nor intentionally place any person in danger of bodily harm.

6. Illegal or unauthorized entry upon the property of any University facility, particularly any property which has been restricted in use and thereby placed off-limits; or unauthorized presence in a University facility after closing hours; or unauthorized possession or use of a key to a University facility.

7. Destruction of property belonging to the University or to individuals.

8. Improper protests and/or demonstrations or continual harassment of individuals. In keeping with its essential mission, the University provides a forum for the free exchange of ideas and the expression of all responsible points of view. At the same time, no persons, whether acting singly or in concert with others, will be allowed to resort to illegal actions which jeopardize the rights or safety of others; which endanger property; which may cause injury to any person; which violate the legitimate interest of others such as interrupting classes, lectures, scheduled events, interviews, or administrative functions; or which in any way interfere with the operation of the University.

9. Gambling. Gambling is forbidden by state law.

10. Use of alcohol or other intoxicants or use, without medical supervision, or abuse of drugs controlled by law, including possession, use, or trafficking in marijuana, LSD, or other illegal drugs and controlled substances as defined by Utah Law.

11. Violation of published University rules and regulations; failure to comply with the directives of a University official in the performance of his/her official duties; violating the terms of disciplinary probation during a period when a student is on probation.

12. Sexual harassment or assault. Any violation of campus sexual harassment policy or any violation of a person in a sexual or sexually offensive way as otherwise defined by Utah Law.

IV. Off-Campus Behavior

If a student is arrested away from the campus by a public law enforcement officer and charged with a crime and arraigned in a court of law, the disciplinary agencies of the University, at their discretion, may take action independent of any proceeding in the criminal or civil courts. Unless, in the opinion of University authorities, the presence of a student so charged on the campus constitutes a danger to others at the University, he/she may be permitted to continue in school until the court determines his/her innocence or guilt.

Serious offenses such as stealing, illegal use of drugs, or assault, whether occurring on or off campus, may be referred to courts of law. On the other hand, students arrested away from the campus for offenses that are associated with University activities may be referred to University authorities for disciplinary action. Usually, however, violations occurring on campus are dealt with by judicial bodies of the University and those off campus by appropriate courts of law.

If a student is convicted in a court of law of a serious offense, particularly of a felony, he/she may be suspended or expelled from school by properly constituted University agencies. Such sanctions may be imposed, not to increase the punishment of offenders, but in recognition of the University's obligation to protect other members of the University and to maintain an environment conducive to the pursuit of academic enterprises.

V. University Disciplinary Agencies

Students charged with violations requiring disciplinary action are referred to one of several agencies; the Office of the Vice President for Student Services, the Student Parking Appeals Committee, or the Student Disciplinary Board.

Each of these bodies—whose functions are described below—has a dual responsibility: (1) to maintain the safety and integrity of all members of the University community through upholding campus policy and civil law, and (2) to safeguard the rights of all students, including those charged with violations of expected standards of conduct.

In all hearings before University disciplinary agencies, the principles of fair play and due process are followed. All persons present at the hearings shall treat the matters discussed therein with confidence. Each student accused of misbehavior is guaranteed certain rights and must be informed of those rights. Among those rights are the following:

1. The right to be informed in writing of the nature of any complaint brought against him/her.

2. The right to a hearing before the appropriate judicial body, to be held no earlier than three days nor later than two weeks after the student is notified of the charges against him/her. (The same procedure must be followed on appeals.)

3. The right to present witnesses and evidence on his/her behalf.

4. The right to hear and examine all evidence presented against him/her and ask questions of witnesses either directly or through the chairperson of the hearing committee.

5. The right to be accompanied at the hearing by any person of his/her choosing, whether a fellow student, a counselor, or member of his/her family. An accused student also has, at his/her expense, the right to the assistance of an attorney. This assistance may include preparation for the hearing and attendance at the hearing. However, an attorney attending a hearing should only advise the student. The nature of the proceedings is such that the student should plan to speak for him/herself and not by or through an attorney.

6. The right to appeal any decision to the appropriate campus judicial body. Appeals must be filed within seven days following notification of decision.

In all hearings, it is assumed that a student charged with violation of University regulations is innocent of charges until proven guilty. A finding of innocent or guilty shall be based on a preponderance of the evidence. A preponderance of the evidence is defined as "the greater weight of the credible evidence." A student will not be compelled to testify at his/her own hearing, and failure to do so will not be considered as evidence of his/her guilt or proof of facts detrimental to his/her position. If a student does not appear before the judicial body responsible for hearing his/her case after he/she has been properly notified of the hearing, the case will be heard in his/her absence and action rendered on the basis of evidence available. All hearings are closed to persons not specifically authorized by the board chairperson as a means of protecting the privacy of individuals and the intended confidential nature of the proceedings.

VI. Office of the Vice President for Student Services

The Vice President for Student Services is responsible for a wide range of discipline cases referred from students, faculty, administrative staff, the housing office, and others. While the primary responsibilities of the Vice President for Student Services are to direct services for students, to formulate policies for student activities, and to counsel students, he/she also is charged with coordinating the activities of the various student disciplinary agencies of the University.

Charges of misconduct are referred to the VPSS who notifies the student of his/her rights and refers the case to the appropriate disciplinary agency for action. In minor cases and in certain cases of a confidential nature, the VP has the authority to dispose of cases without referring them to other disciplinary agencies. To fulfill his/her responsibilities, the VP is empowered to impose disciplinary sanctions, including social probation, housing probation, assessment of fines, and/or reprimand. In addition, the VP has the authority to impose temporary suspension from school; however, cases in which suspension is invoked must be referred to the Student Disciplinary Board for final disposition within five days after the student has been notified of his/her suspension. In no case will the VPSS unilaterally dispose of a case without the concurrence of the student charged with misconduct. Any student suspended from classes who is later found innocent by one of the disciplinary agencies of the University shall have the right to make up all class work missed during the suspension. When a disciplinary sanction is specified, the VPSS will sign the document which informs the student of the sanction. The VPSS may also counsel with members of his/her staff, students and/or faculty before rendering a decision or making a recommendation in a particular case.

The VPSS in his/her capacity as coordinator of all campus student disciplinary agencies is responsible for convening the Student Disciplinary Board. Requests for a hearing before the Student Disciplinary Board should be made through the VPSS.

VII. Student Parking Appeals Committee

The power to pass rules and regulations governing parking and traffic on campuses is vested in the governing board of each state institution of higher education. (See chapter 150, Laws of Utah, 1969, pp. 61 ff.) Enforcement of traffic rules and regulations is vested in the chief of the department of public safety. Fines assessed for traffic violations must be paid to the University Cashier. Visitors to the campus who feel their cases warrant special considerations may appeal to the public safety officer.

Students who feel their cases warrant special attention may appeal to the Student Parking Appeals Committee. The committee is composed of three members of the SUUSA Judicial Council. A member of the public safety staff will serve as a non-voting adviser. Students may appeal by filling out the appropriate notice of appeal form in the student government office in the Sharwan Smith Center within 10 class days of the date of the ticket. All decisions of the Student Parking Appeals Committee shall be final.

VIII. Student Disciplinary Board

The responsibility for disciplining students charged with serious violations is delegated to a student-faculty board, the Student Disciplinary Board. The Board has the authority to hear cases of students charged with violation of University rules and regulations. The Board is also the appeals agency for students not satisfied with decisions rendered by the Vice President for Student Services.

The Student Disciplinary Board is a permanent University Board composed of three members of the SUUSA Judicial Council appointed by the Southern Utah Student Association (both sexes should be represented); one faculty member appointed by the Faculty Senate; two faculty or staff members appointed by the president of the University (both sexes will be represented); and the SUUSA activities vice president as an ex-officio member without a vote except in case of a tie.

The Vice President for Student Services or his/her designee, the SUUSA Academic Vice President, University legal council and department of public safety personnel (in addition to possibly serving in a witness capacity) may attend meetings of the Board, but will serve the board in advisory capacities only.

Terms of office for faculty or staff members of the board shall be for two academic years, and a member may be reappointed. Student members shall remain on the Board for as long they retain their positions in student government. The President of the University shall appoint a chairperson of the Board of Student Discipline from among its members.

In his/her capacity as coordinator of all campus student disciplinary agencies, the vice president for student services has the responsibility to set the calendar for the Board, to counsel with students charged with violations of University regulations, advising them of their rights and informing them of the board's action. The vice president for student services will also be responsible for informing those designated to enforce the decisions of the Board of all Board action.

IX. The President of the University

The president of Southern Utah University is the final appellate authority in the University. Students who have been found guilty of misconduct by the Student Disciplinary Board have the right to appeal that decision to the president. Appeals should be in writing and should be filed within seven days after a decision is rendered by the Disciplinary Board.

X. Disciplinary Penalties and Sanctions

In order to carry out its essential mission, the University has the authority to penalize or to impose sanctions against students guilty of violating University regulations. Many of the penalties and sanctions which may be invoked by the various disciplinary agencies have been described above, but in general; possible punishments that can be levied by the various agencies include the following:

1. Admonition or warning or reprimand.
2. Loss of privileges, for example: (a) Removal from campus housing. (b) Discontinuation of scholarship, loan or other financial aid. (c) Denial of participation in University activities such as athletics, drama, forensics, etc.
3. Disciplinary probation, with or without loss of designated privileges for a stated period of time.
4. Suspension: Exclusion from classes and other privileges or activities as set forth in the notice of suspension for a definite or indefinite period of time.
5. Expulsion: Termination of student status for an indefinite period of time.
6. Other sanctions will be as determined by the appropriate disciplinary agency, including the requirement that the student complete a special project, which may be, but is not limited to, writing an essay, attending a special class or lecture, or visiting with a counselor.

Restitution for stolen or damaged property may be required in addition to any of the sanctions listed above. The University may withhold awarding of degrees or awards or issuing transcripts of credit unless satisfactory arrangements are made regarding payment of fines or assessments or the clearing of other financial obligations to the University.

E.E.O.C. STATEMENT

Southern Utah University is committed to policies of non-discrimination and equal opportunity, and pursues affirmative action in all programs, activities, and employment with regard to race, color, national origin, sex, age, status as a disabled individual, religion, status as a disabled veteran or a veteran of the Vietnam era. STUDENT DEVELOPMENT CENTER

The Student Development Center, located in the Sharwan Smith Center 169, offers services which help students adjust to college life, select college courses, identify academic and career options and provide information and registration opportunities for a variety of tests.

STUDENT DEVELOPMENT SERVICES

Academic advisers in the Student Development Center assist students with selecting an academic major, completing general education requirements and evaluating educational goals. In addition, advisers work with students in choosing appropriate fields of study and resolving issues that impact students' academic success.

The following courses are offered to assist students in their personal growth and skill development: UNIV 1310, Student Success, UNIV 1020, Career Decisions and UNIV 1010, University Orientation, a required class for all first-time university students. These courses are taught by advisers in the Student Development Center and other Student Services professionals.

TESTING SERVICES

Student Development Center testing services administer the General Education Development Test (GED), ACT Assessment, SAT I & II, College-Level Exam Program (CLEP), Police Officer Selection Test (POST), Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and other national testing programs. Applications, study material and other information for these exams are available in the Student Development Center. In addition, the center also offers a variety of inventories to assist with major, career and life decisions. Testing arrangements can be made with the Student Development Center on an individual basis.

UNIVERSITY ORIENTATION

The transition to collegiate life can be a challenge. To help new students, particularly freshmen, adjust to college life, UNIV 1010, a comprehensive orientation program, serves the campus. Coordinated by the Student Development Center, University Orientation introduces new students and their parents to SUU. Moreover, this one-credit course is required of new freshmen prior to their first semester on campus. Orientation sessions are provided at a variety of times during the summer and before spring semester. The course acquaints students with the services, facilities, opportunities, and responsibilities of being a student at SUU.

SCHOOL RELATIONS

Located in the Sharwan Smith Center, the school relations department performs several vital functions to SUU, which includes giving campus tours, hosting overnight visitors at the University Hosting Center, producing campus publications and scholarship selection. School relations supervises the Admissions Adviser program, the Presidential Ambassadors program, the Governor's Honors Academy, Quest Leadership Seminars, various scholarship weekend programs (including Junior Honors Weekends, Multicultural Weekend, Ambassador Weekend, and Spring Leadership Weekends) and other recruitment and public relations functions.

School relations offers students the opportunity to get involved directly in the leadership aspect of the recruiting process. The presidential ambassadors, a student program designed to host dignitaries, special events for the President's Office, weekend events, give campus tours and aid in the recruitment of high school leaders, is a highly prestigious organization. Only a handful of SUU's most prominent students are selected to represent the institution in the ambassador program. Involvement within the program is selective, but open to any student who would like to become involved.

Campus tours are given Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Visiting the campus on an official tour is one of the best choices a prospective SUU student can make. Please call (435) 865-8360 or e-mail tour@suu.edu several days in advance to schedule your tour.

The school relations department takes a personal role in the lives of new students by recruiting them but, more importantly, by helping them take the first step in their collegiate career.

STUDENT SUPPORT CENTER

The Student Support Center, located on the second floor of the Sharwan Smith Center, houses a unique combination of separate programs which work together to offer services to students. The five programs are: Multicultural Center, Student Support Services, Talent Search, Upward Bound and Disabled Student Services.

Each program within the Center is geared to helping students develop the personal, academic and professional skills they need to enhance individual growth, adjustment to college life, and career preparation.

The Multicultural Center

The Multicultural Center provides personal, academic, financial and career counseling to ethnic minority students at SUU. Here, students are assisted in their adjustment to college life, and are encouraged to use the academic support services available on campus. The Center also serves as a liaison between various tribal, state and federal agencies.

To further enrich cultural understanding, the Center encourages the participation of all interested faculty, staff and students in various multicultural activities. The Native American Student Association, Hispanic Club, Asian Club, Students for Campus Diversity Club, International Club, Black Student Alliance and Polynesian Club co-sponsor special campus events such as the Miss Indian SUU Pageant, International Week, Hispanic Awareness Week, various Culture Study evenings, Black History Month, Native American Week and a Polynesian Luau. The staff of the Center is readily available for consultation, and coordinates numerous workshops, demonstrations, and displays dealing with international, Native American, African-American, Pacific Island and Hispanic cultures as a campus and community service. The Center also promotes the development of ethnic-oriented curriculum by furnishing lectures and workshops on minority cultures, languages, and current issues. The Center's cross-cultural books, tapes, records and videos are also available for check out.

A tutoring program, open to all students regardless of ethnic background, is jointly administered by the Multicultural Center and the Learning Center. Tutorial assistance is provided throughout the year in all major fields of study. Contact the Learning Center in ELC 112 for a tutoring schedule.

First Year Experience/Student Success Program

A learning specialist, housed in the Student Support Center, coordinates the First Year Experience program. At the core of the program is UNIV 1310, a course which helps students focus on developing effective habits and supports students in the practice of these habits in a companion course of their choice.

Students in the course take a cohort of general education classes. With the assistance of mentors, the class members develop study and critical thinking skills to help assure success in those general education courses and to gain and give support to one another in their learning community.

All students in the course participate in Individual Success Plans (ISPs) where they select from a menu of workshop choices. Students may learn more about fields of study, career services, conflict resolution, advisement and numerous other campus and community services.

Disabled Student Services

The Americans with Disabilities Act and the Rehabilitation Act guarantee equal access, equal opportunity and non-discrimination for people with disabilities. SUU is committed to supporting both the intent and spirit of these laws. To identify and provide necessary support services as soon as possible, students with disabilities are encouraged to visit the coordinator for Services for Students with Disabilities as soon as they are admitted to Southern Utah University in the Sharwan Smith Center, Room 205D.

Disabled Student Services offers a comprehensive program of individualized services to accommodate the needs of students with disabilities. Typical services may include advocacy, textbooks on tape, notetakers, readers, priority registration and test taking accommodations. Students with disabilities are responsible for identifying themselves, providing appropriate documentation of limitations, strengths and recommendations, and requesting reasonable accommodations. No diagnostic services are available through Disabled Student Services. The coordinator can be reached at (435) 865-8022.

Student Support Services

Student Support Services is funded through the U.S. Department of Education. This program is designed to provide equal access and opportunity to postsecondary education for educationally and economically disadvantaged students and students with disabilities.

Student Support Services provides identified SUU students developmental and college-level instruction and special services designed to increase their retention and graduation rates; to maximize their social, cultural and academic adjustment within the University environment; and to assist in the achievement of their academic and career goals. These services include developmental classes in English (ENGL 0900 and 0990) and in math (MATH 0900, 0920 and 0990), a Study Skills: Student Success course, (UNIV 1310), tutorial services, and individualized academic and personal skills development.

Talent Search

Talent Search at Southern Utah University provides early intervention services to 600 southern Utah students in grades six through 12. Its purpose is to help students better understand their educational opportunities and options. Participants receive information about college admissions requirements, scholarships and various financial aid programs. Project activities include assessment of each participant's academic needs; ACT seminars, career and financial aid counseling; academic guidance, college tours and other activities to keep students in school and focused on career and college success. Upward Bound

Upward Bound serves 100 students from high schools in southern Utah and northern Arizona. Tutoring and counseling services throughout the school year are offered to these students to help them develop the skills and motivation needed for academic success in high school and entrance into postsecondary programs. Twice each year these students spend a weekend at SUU where they are given selected workshops in such topics as note taking, time management, critical thinking and financial aid. A six-week summer campus residential component prepares them for college life.

VETERANS' SERVICES

Veterans attending SUU and pursuing a four-year degree or an AAS degree may receive benefits from the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Students who have completed at least 24 months of continuous active military service may be eligible for course credit. Please check with the SUU Veterans' Office listed below for an evaluation.

SUU participates with the veteran and the Department of Veterans' Affairs in all educational benefits offered. Programs change; therefore, contact with the veterans' coordinator, SUU Registrar's Office, Sharwan Smith Center 166A, (435) 586-7715, is crucial to getting benefits in a timely manner.

2. STUDENT ACTIVITIES AND ORGANIZATIONS

THE OFFICE OF STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Recognizing the value of extracurricular life in the growth of the student, the University encourages participation in the many and varied opportunities available on campus. Through such participation, students achieve the qualities of social leadership and a perspective of values which help prepare them for the challenges of a rewarding life.

The Office of Student Activities, located in rooms 101, 102 and 115 of the Sharwan Smith Center, cooperates closely with the Southern Utah University Student Association (SUUSA) and other student groups. The director and assistant director of student activities are available to assist students with both general and specific organizational challenges. They also promote social leadership skills and decision-making techniques that are valuable to campus life and the future growth of each individual student.

The office coordinates the efforts of student government, sponsors specific student activities and generally serves students in ways that will enhance their collegiate experience at SUU. Listed below are some of the opportunities available for student activity involvement.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The leadership of the SUUSA is separated into three branches: executive, legislative, and judicial. The purpose of student government is to provide opportunities for student involvement, leadership development and to plan and implement successful activities that meet the social and academic needs of students.

The student government leaders are anxious to complement the academic life of SUU students through the programs and activities they sponsor. Many opportunities exist for students to assist in the activities organized by student government. Please visit the leaders in the Student Activities Office to enrich your collegiate experience.

EXECUTIVE BRANCH—Executive Council

Under the direction of the student body president, the executive council will "make a difference" in the quality of collegiate life for the students at SUU. The council not only sponsors social activities but provides other services, such as assistance to off-campus tenants, cultural awareness, internship opportunities, and support of student organizations.

LEGISLATIVE BRANCH—SUUSA Senate and Assembly

The SUUSA Senate is comprised of 15 elected senators, three from each College of the University. The academic vice president is president of the senate, which approves all allocations of student fees.

The Assembly is a body elected by clubs which allocates funds to student clubs and organizations on campus. The Clubs and Organizations vice president is the president of the Assembly.

JUDICIAL BRANCH—Judicial Council

The judicial council consists of a chief justice and four associate justices. The jurisdiction of the council shall extend to all cases regarding the SUUSA constitution. It shall rule on election by-laws and parking appeals.

IT, MEDIA AND ADVANCEMENT

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

The division of Information Technology provides the technological infrastructure for computing and networking on campus and provides support services for the administration, the faculty and staff, and the students. The infrastructure for computing and networking includes a computer center which houses most of the campus servers, a campus-wide network which connects all buildings to the campus servers and to the Internet, and a variety of open labs and teaching labs for the students. The support services include faculty and staff training, desktop software installation, web development, trouble-shooting and problem resolution, managing administrative computing, managing the central servers, and managing the student labs.

The computer center houses administrative servers, departmental servers, faculty servers, student servers, e-mail servers, web servers, Internet domain servers, and backup servers. It also houses the primary campus network hub.

The campus backbone network consists of hubs and fiber-optic trunk lines which connect the building hubs to the primary and secondary campus hubs. The building networks consist of hubs with copper lines and fiber-optic lines that connect desktop computers and lab computers to the building hubs. The campus network hubs and the building network hubs contain a variety of high-speed equipment including routers, switches, and concentrators.

The student labs contain primarily PC computers, but some labs have a mixture of PCs and Macintosh computers, and some labs have only Macintosh computers. All labs have laser printers, and some labs have Zip drives and scanners. The open labs are staffed with student assistants. All labs have Internet access, e-mail, and Corel and Microsoft office suites. There are currently 690 computers available for student use.

General purpose software packages are provided for all faculty, staff, and students. All students are allowed to have a personal account for e-mail and file storage. The Internet browsers available are Netscape and Microsoft's Internet Explorer. The Corel Office Suite includes WordPerfect, Quattro Pro, and Presentations. The Microsoft Office Suite includes Word, Excel, PowerPoint, and Access. There are also many special purpose departmental software packages available in the labs.

In addition to the student labs, several areas on campus are provided for students to connect personal laptop computers to the campus network, and approximately 250 computer connections are available in the apartment rooms of the residence halls, Juniper and Manzanita.

RADIO/TV FACILITIES

Radio and T.V. facilities meet the need for mass communication at SUU. A licensed FM-radio station, KSUU-FM, is the radio voice of the University, and it functions as part of the broadcasting curriculum in the communication department. The station is on the air 16 hours a day, six days each week. Programming consists of educational features, news, recorded music and network presentations.

The communication department also programs SUTV Channel 9 on the local cable television system. Programming on SUTV consists of SUU sports, regular live newscasts, educational material, interview programs, public affairs and material from the arts.

ADVANCEMENT OFFICE

One of the keys to SUU's growth and development is its relationship with the alumni and friends of the University. Within the Advancement Office of the University, there are three important departments: alumni and development, which strengthen the institution's ties to its constituency and develop resources to enhance the academic environment on campus; and the Utah Summer Games, which works to provide quality participation opportunities and to encourage healthy lifestyles among all residents of the state.

Development

The Development Office oversees the fundraising efforts of the University. Through these efforts, the University seeks to obtain resources through the annual fund, corporations and foundations, grants and contracts, athletic development, planned gifts and major gifts.

The Development Office also conducts such special events as phonathons, Presidential Retreats, Old Main Society inductions, scholarship luncheons, estate planning seminars and special resource development campaigns.

The Development Office provides the vital margin of difference toward enhancing the quality of services and programs of the University by generating private and public resources for the University.

Alumni

The Alumni Relations Office of the University is charged with strengthening the relationship between the University and its alumni and friends. The University also sponsors the SUU Alumni Association for all students who have attended the University for two or more academic terms or who have served as faculty or staff of the University. The Alumni Association assists actively in SUU commencement activities and also supports the SUU Student Alumni Association, an organization that sponsors activities for current students.

The Alumni Association is governed by the SUU National Alumni Board, a volunteer board that conducts numerous campus sponsored events such as Homecoming, chapter activities, reunions and regional receptions. The Alumni Association is informed of University events and special happenings through the Alumni News of Southern Utah University, an official publication of SUU, as well as through the establishment of regional alumni chapters throughout the state and region. The Alumni Office is located in the J. Reuben Clark Jr. Alumni House.

The Utah Summer Games

Founded in 1986, the Utah Summer Games is a multi-sport festival which offers Olympic-style competition to the state's amateur athletes of all ages and abilities. A charter member of the National Congress of State Games, the USG was among the first of what is now 49 states to hold state games. Competitions in the Games are held each June in and around Cedar City, with SUU serving as host to the annual opening ceremonies as well as numerous events in the Games' 48 sports.

The mission of the Utah Summer Games is to provide Utah residents with a wholesome avenue for positive personal development through sports and physical activity, to recognize dedication and achievement, to provide all residents with an opportunity to utilize quality sports facilities, and to create an amateur sports network of administrators and volunteers throughout Utah to further the development of grassroots amateur athletic programs. The USG is endorsed by the U.S. Olympic Committee as a grassroots Olympic sports festival, and has proven to be an important facet of the University's overall educational quest.
