GENERAL CLASSROOM BUILDING

History

Originally built as the Science Building in the 1960's it was converted to the General Classrooms Building in 1985 following the completion of the new Science Building. In 1985 it housed 45% of all classes on campus.

Fun Facts

- The silhouette of birds that are located in the windows were put up because birds were flying into the windows.
- The floors in the building go from 000, 100, 300, 400 with the 200 being in the side building where the Family & Consumer Science Department is housed.
- The Criminal Justice, Political Science, and Criminology departments integrate in this building using the new Justice Court to perform highly complex court proceedings.
