MUSIC BUILDING

History

Ground was broken for the Music Building in October 1965. Prior to the completion of the Music Building, the Music Department was located in a home donated to the school by the Frank J. Thorley Family.

Fun Facts

- After considerable effort, the SUU band once wore White House Ceremonial uniforms, designed during the Nixon administration; they were only worn once.
- Some professors and students have said that when working or practicing late at night they have heard instruments playing, and when checking to see who was there…there was no one!
- SUU's Music Department students participate in over 60 performances annually.

Inside the music building

- The Music Department
- 15 piano practice rooms
- A listening lab
