Challenged Materials Evaluation

Use the internet to do a search on “banned books.” Choose at least three of the banned or challenged book titles you discover that could be part of the elementary library collection. Identify reasons why the books might be challenged, and prepare convincing reasons for leaving each item on the shelves. Then explain on page three what you would do if the books were on your shelves and you received a complaint. Defend your stand in writing, taking into consideration your selection policies and your procedures for dealing with controversial issues.
