SUU's ART INSIGHTS TO HOST
SARA TABBERT, PRINTMAKER
ZION ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE
OCTOBER 30TH, 2014

SOUTHERN UTAH UNIVERSITY, Cedar City, UT: Inspired by the natural world, Sara Tabbert carefully collides the dancing contours and dynamic colors in her dimensional prints. Her interest and love for this careful craft inspire a dialogue between woodcut print work and my carved pieces. At her upcoming Art Insights appearance, Tabbert will be presenting her expeditions of study towards the creative processes of her prints and her experience as a Zion National Park Artist-in-Residence. The presentation will take place in the Gilbert Great Hall on Thursday, October 30th, 2014, at 7pm. Admission is free and the general public is invited to attend.

Trained as a Printmaker, Sara Tabbert desires to create interesting surfaces. With a Master's of Fine Arts degree in Printmaking from the University of Nebraska and a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Studio Art from Grinnell College, Tabbert finds joy in the mindful art of printmaking. The cunning twists and turns of her sculpting materials create beauty in the carved piece as art. The chiseled and engraved block often ends up as her finished work, rather than simply the things that could make a print. Insight awakens from her home just outside of Fairbanks, Alaska. Art inspired by the shapes and forms of the natural world provoke observation and life study that have always been important elements in the working process. Tabbert's search composes elements of "observation and imagination to skew my pieces away from pure realism. When my art is at its best it is part science and part fairy tale." Sara invigorates her symphony of science and fairy tales within schools and classrooms. Her love of printmaking is shared as she partner with children to create masterpieces inspired enjoy this careful art.

As an artist-in-residence with a folio of eclectic places, for Sara, "going to a new place and making art is always a richer experience than just traveling through it." From Yukon to Buenos Aires and from the National Park Service in Denali and Isle Royale, she explores combinations of color, movement and shape from our some of finest natural assets while having the time and space to make art is "truly a unique opportunity.” With exhibitions, educational outreach and residences around the world, she aims to spark beauty through printmaking. Sara invites you to traverse her world and vibrant prints on her artist website: www.saratabbert.com.
