MITSUYO MIYAZAKI
SEPTEMBER 4, 2014

Southern Utah University, Cedar City, Utah: As a story-teller, Mitsuyo Miyazaki visually articulates the power and beauty of humanity through her films. Miyazaki's craftsmanship in the visual and performing arts has drawn enriching realization, so much so that she will be the featured guest at SUU's Department of Art & Design's weekly series, Art Insights. At this presentation, Miyazaki will be sharing her insights and experience with students. The presentation will take place in the Gilbert Great Hall of SUU's Hunter Conference Center on Thursday, September 4, 2014, at 7pm. Admission is free and the general public is invited to attend.

Originally from Osaka Japan, Mitsuyo Miyazaki is an artistic Renaissance woman with extensive professional background as an actor, dancer, singer and photographer. As an alumni of Southern Utah University, Miyazaki acquired her Bachelor of Science in Theater Arts, Dance Performance and Fine Arts. With her love for the arts and a creative mind towards story-telling, Miyazaki traversed into cinematography as a writer and director. Her 2011 debut student film, Tsuyako, was developed as her capstone project which earned her a Master's of Fine Arts in Film and Television Production from the University of Southern California, School of Cinematic Arts.

Inspired by an old photograph of her grandmother, Tsuyako narrates a post-war Japanese factory worker and mother that must decide between duty and love; between her family and her freedom. Tsuyako premiered at over seventy film festivals worldwide, earning forty-two awards and two nominations such as: Best Screenplay and Best Short Film at Social World Film Festival in Italy and Future Filmmaker's Award and Audience Award at Palm Springs International Short Fest. Jury Guanajuato International Film Festival exclaims:

A fascinating film that touched all of us very deeply. Through its many layers and textures, the short film makes exquisite use of the great Japanese Cinematic tradition... We chose Tsuyako by unanimous decision for its elegant cinematography, profound acting and mostly its provocative subject matter.

Her most recent film, A Better Tomorrow (2013), enters a world of fantasy and adventure. Miyazaki was chosen as one of five directors what were selected by producers The Weinstein Company and Lexus International; the film previewed the latest concept car, the Lexus LF-LC. At a time of water starvation, two orphans endear to follow their father's legacy and develop a technology that could "turn the tides of time and heal the earth." As dark forces seize them in effort to steal their father's invention, the device is mistakenly activated and a mysterious power unleashed. Finally, as the orphans pursue escape, they are magically transported on a voyage out of this world. A Better Tomorrow takes the audience on an emotional and heartwarming journey.

Mitsuyo Miyazaki blends a sincere and compelling story with strong and illustrative cinematography confirming her mastery in story-telling. Miyazaki believes in the "power of visual communication, and that it changes society and the minds of the people." Her work firmly exemplifies "stories that bring out the essence and connection with the audience and their sense of humanity."
