

Project Summary

My Project was a little different than most, rather than one big event or trip I participated in the on campus radio Station KSUU Power91. I started last year doing simple things like attending radio event and remotes and eventually became the club president on campus and hired by the station as their Promotions and Marketing Director. I was also able to get a full time position on the stations morning show "The Morning Brew".

Being involved with the station has given me a ton of opportunities to be involved here on campus as well as out in the community, I've helped to plan remote radio broadcasts, campus events, meet new people, and help teach new students in the radio program.

Project Highlights

- I've been able to meet and interview several famous people: Jeremy Cranford from Blizzard Entertainment and Travis Oates, the voice of Piglet, and the Folkadots band.
- I've learned how to plan for and organize people for events and just how much behind the scenes effort goes into making an event happen.
- I've been able to really develop my own personality because of my time here with the Radio Station and learn how to help others do the same.

From My Journal

We were asked to provide music and do a remote for the ROTC Super Sorrel 5K, the event started at 6am and I had to be at the Centrum at 5am to get gear to get set up. My station manager forgot to leave a key for me, so I had to wake up the Centrum facilities manager at 5am to let me in. I don't think he appreciated that.

Power91 table at the club fair! We had a good time making people show us weird talents for free t-shirts; one girl was able to scream so loud my ear is still ringing.

We did a great remote for an animal sanctuary here in town and gave away t-shirts to anyone who brought their animals to learn about obedience school and good pet ownership! I sometimes see this dog with the shirt on around town still.
